SOURCE Noticias.REPORT CLANDESTINE ANTI-COMMUNIST RADIO IN GERMANY

According to Die Weltwoche, a Swiss weekly, a clandestine radio transmitter calling itself Radio Free Russia, started broadcasting in Russian and Ukrainian on 13 March 1951.

Die Weltwoche believes that it is conducted chiefly by deserters from the Soviet Army who have set up a resistance group in Berlin-Wilmersdorf, with headquarters in Hamburg. The broadcasts are in the form of appeals to revolt against the Bolshevik tyranny, and identify themselves by the letters NTS, which are the Russian initials for the phrase "death to the tyrants."

This group is also believed to be responsible for the many anti-Communist pamphlets, written in German and Russian, which are showered on the cities of East Germany. These pamphlets invite anyone who is persecuted by the Soviet regime to seek refuge in the group's quarters at 13 Gieselerstrasse, Berlin-Wilmersdorf.
